On the marks: [DICTATION] is the founder's word, taken as given. [DESIGN] is a founding design decision, awaiting his red pen — nothing here is doctrine until it passes TRVVTH twice. [SCRIBE] is the scribe's proposal; his red pen rules.

Standing notice: This is a founding design document, not a legal filing. No entity exists yet, no accreditation is claimed, no license is held, no counsel has reviewed it. What is written here is the vow the house intends to keep, set down before the house exists so the house can be measured against it.

HYPOTHESIS

A DNS registrar and ISP can be founded on a single axiom: the user is sovereign, the company is fiduciary [DICTATION]. From this axiom the whole follows — the network as common carrier, privacy as refusal, every right multiplied by its duty (OzxDuty, not Oz+Duty) [DICTATION], TRVVTH as the sole absolute authority [DICTATION], and no master above or below [DICTATION].

METHOD

Seven articles state the doctrine plainly and tightly. Each article is load-bearing: a rule the company keeps, a remedy the user holds, and a measure by which both are judged. Claims are marked [DICTATION] / [DESIGN] / [SCRIBE] as above. Footnotes cite genuine authorities as educational reference only — they are not legal advice and claim no legal effect.

PREAMBLE

We are Twin Synergy Telecommunications, and this is our founding vow.

We lay the wire and we keep the line open. That is the whole of the job. The network is not ours — it is the road, and we are the hands hired to keep it. We do not own the traffic on it, we do not watch it, we do not slow it down to sell the fast lane to somebody else, and we do not sell you to anyone, ever.

You are the sovereign of your connection. We answer to you and to no one else. If any article below ever reads like it serves us instead of you, it is wrong, and the red pen will strike it.

That is the arrangement. Everything after this is us writing it down so nobody forgets.

OF THE NAME [DICTATION]

TWIN is the duality: the inner and the outer, the micro and the macro — the two nodes hidden in plain sight, gold among gold, their office unrecognized until you know where to look. SYNERGY is the whole beyond its parts: the user and the carrier, the signal and the silence, made more together than either is alone. Two that serve; one that results.

ARTICLE I — SOVEREIGNTY OF THE USER

§1. The user is sovereign over their connection. The company is fiduciary: bound to act for the user's benefit, and for no other's, in all matters of the undertaking. [DICTATION]

§2. The company serves one master — the user. No investor, advertiser, partner, or government interest overrides the user's. (Cf. Art. VI.)

§3. The rights in this Constitution are recognized, not granted. What is recognized cannot be un-recognized by the recognizer; it can only be betrayed — and betrayal is answered under Article VII §4.

Law: "FIDUCIARY. A person having duty, created by his undertaking, to act primarily for another's benefit in matters connected with such undertaking." — Black's Law Dictionary, 2d ed. (1910). Scripture: "whosoever will be chiefest, shall be servant of all." — [Tanakh/NT: Mark 10:44, KJV].

ARTICLE II — THE NETWORK AS COMMON CARRIER

§1. The network is a common carrier. Let no difference be made between any one thing and any other thing carried upon it. [DESIGN, after the epigraph]

§2. No throttling. No paid prioritization. No inspection of content to sort, score, throttle, or sell.

§3. The company may manage traffic only to keep the network alive — congestion, attack, failure — and every such act is published: what was done, to what, and why. Silence about it is a breach of Article V.

Law: "When private property is 'affected with a public interest, it ceases to be juris privati only.'" — [Munn v. Illinois, 94 U.S. 113, 126 (1877)]. Scripture: "For there is no respect of persons with God." — [NT: Romans 2:11, KJV].

ARTICLE III — PRIVACY

§1. The company keeps no record of user activity: no browsing history, no DNS query logs, no location trails, no ledgers of persons. What is not kept cannot be taken. [DICTATION — his no-logging doctrine]

§2. Data minimization: the company holds only what the service needs and the bill requires — nothing held "just in case."

§3. Where the company can encrypt end-to-end, it does. What the company cannot read, it cannot surrender. [DICTATION — E2E where possible]

§4. No disclosure of user data without a warrant or equivalent order of a court. The user is told of the order unless the order lawfully forbids the telling — and a forbidding the company cannot fight in the open, it fights in court. [DICTATION — warrant required for everything]

§5. Overbroad orders are challenged, not obeyed in silence. The company says no in court before it says yes in secret. [DICTATION — challenge overbroad orders]

Law: "But what he seeks to preserve as private, even in an area accessible to the public, may be constitutionally protected." — [Katz v. United States, 389 U.S. 347, 351–52 (1967)]; "the right to be let alone — the most comprehensive of rights and the right most valued by civilized men." — [Olms tead v. United States, 277 U.S. 438, 478 (1928) (Brandeis, J., dissenting)]. Scripture: "And spy not, neither backbite one another." — [Qur'an 49:12, Pickthall].

ARTICLE IV — OZ×DUTY

§1. Every right the company claims over the network is multiplied by a duty to the user. Oz×Duty, not Oz+Duty: the duty scales with the power; it is never merely added beside it. [DICTATION]

§2. The more the company can do — the wire it holds, the data it refuses to keep, the trust it is given — the more it owes. Power held is debt owed.

§3. A right asserted without its multiplied duty is void here.

Law (maxim): Qui sentit commodum, sentire debet et onus — "He who enjoys the benefit ought also to bear the burden." Scripture: "For unto whomsoever much is given, of him shall be much required." — [NT: Luke 12:48, KJV]. Fiction & film: "With great power comes great responsibility." — [Sam Raimi, Spider-Man, 2002].

ARTICLE V — TRVVTH

§1. TRVVTH is the sole absolute authority over this company — above the founder, above this charter, above profit. Nothing else has absolute authority. [DICTATION]

§2. Honest metrics: published speeds are measured speeds; uptime is real uptime. No "up to," no asterisks, no weasel words.

§3. When the network fails, the company says so — plainly, promptly, with the cause when it is known. Fail-closed: no justification, no action; and no silence either.

§4. Billing is plain: every charge explainable in one sentence. No dark patterns, no surprise fees, no introductory pricing that bites later.

Law: "Unfair or deceptive acts or practices in or affecting commerce are hereby declared unlawful." — [Federal Trade Commission Act, 15 U.S.C. § 45(a)(1)]. Scripture: "And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." — [NT: John 8:32, KJV].

ARTICLE VI — NO MASTER

§1. No upstream — no carrier, vendor, investor, or government — may conscript the company against its users. An order to betray the users is refused. If refusal is impossible, the company says so publicly, and the users are told to leave. Fail-closed. [DICTATION]

§2. The company takes no master and is none: it serves sovereign users; it never rules them.

[DICTATION]

§3. Exit is always open: any user may leave at any time, take their data and their domains with them, and be forgotten on request. No lock-in, no hostage domains, no exit fees.

§4. This Constitution travels with the company: sale, merger, or succession inherits these duties whole. [DESIGN]

Law: "An act of the legislature, repugnant to the constitution, is void." — [Marbury v. Madison, 5 U.S. 137, 177 (1803)], his cited authority for repugnancy. Scripture: "Stand fast therefore in the liberty wherewith Christ hath made us free, and be not entangled again with the yoke of bondage." — [NT: Galatians 5:1, KJV].

ARTICLE VII — AMENDMENT

§1. The founder's red pen amends this Constitution. The hand that founded it holds the pen. [DESIGN, at his order]

§2. Amendments are published plainly — the change marked in red and dated — before they take effect. No silent edits. (His blood-lettering rule: red-pen changes print red, permanent as a tattoo.) [DICTATION]

§3. Users ratify by continued custom: to stay is to consent; to leave is to dissent. The open door of Article VI §3 is the ballot box. [DESIGN]

§4. No amendment may weaken the individual of the indivisible. Anything repugnant to this Constitution is void — even from the founder's pen. [DICTATION — his repugnancy doctrine: repugnant = anything that weakens the individual of the indivisible]

§5. TRVVTH gates twice: an amendment must pass TRVVTH when penned, and pass TRVVTH again when warranted — only then is it doctrine. [DICTATION — his canonization chain]

Law (maxim): Pacta sunt servanda — "Agreements must be kept." The charter is a pact; both sides keep it, or the pact is broken.

THE MOTTO [SCRIBE — his red pen rules]

Uterque Servit, Neuter Regnat. "Each serves; neither reigns."*

THE SLOGAN [SCRIBE — his red pen rules]

Your line. Your rules. We just carry the signal.

FOUR WELLS AUDIT

The work shows its correlations; thin wells are named, not hidden.

Law. Genuine throughout: Black's 2d ed. fiduciary (Art. I); Munn v. Illinois on property affected with a public interest (Art. II); Katz and Brandeis's "right to be let alone" (Art. III); qui sentit commodum (Art. IV); 15 U.S.C. § 45(a)(1) against deceptive practices (Art. V); Marbury on repugnancy (Arts. VI-VII); pacta sunt servanda (Art. VII). All footnotes are educational reference, not legal advice, and claim no legal effect.

Scripture. Genuine throughout: Mark 10:44, the chiefest as servant of all (Art. I); Romans 2:11, no respect of persons (Art. II); Qur'an 49:12, "spy not" (Art. III); Luke 12:48, much given → much required (Art. IV); John 8:32, the truth shall make you free (Art. V); Galatians 5:1, be not entangled again with the yoke of bondage (Art. VI); the epigraph, Liber AL I:22, no difference made between any one thing and any other (Art. II). Article VII's amendment-by-custom has no scripture parallel claimed — thin, named.

Hip-hop (the vernacular canon). Genuine where claimed: the tradition's fifth element, Knowledge of Self (Afrika Bambaataa's Universal Zulu Nation) — the sovereign user knows self; the company is the tool, never the master (Art. I); the vernacular maxim "everybody eats" — all carried alike, none throttled (Art. II); the vernacular maxim "mind your business" — the company does not watch (Art. III); The Notorious B.I.G., "Mo Money Mo Problems," 1997 — more held, more owed (Art. IV); the vernacular maxim "real recognize real" — honest metrics, no weasel words (Art. V); Public Enemy, "Fight the Power," 1989 — "We've got to fight the powers that be" (Art. VI). Article VII's red-pen amendment has no vernacular parallel claimed — thin, named.

Humanity. The human stakes, stated plainly: a customer is a person, not a data point — "All human beings are born free and equal in dignity and rights" [Universal Declaration of Human Rights, Art. 1] (Art. I); without equal carriage the poor get the slow lane, and a road with toll booths for some is not a road (Art. II); "No one shall be subjected to arbitrary interference with his privacy, family, home or correspondence" [UDHR, Art. 12] — a person needs an unobserved life (Art. III); people trust what answers for itself (Art. IV); people plan their lives and pay their bills on the numbers they're given — the numbers must be true (Art. V); nobody should be trapped in a service — the door must open from the inside (Art. VI); the founder's hand stays on the document, the user's hand stays on the door (Art. VII).
